College of Education

Kean University is a world-class, vibrant and diverse institution offering 50 undergraduate majors and 80 graduate programs and options leading to masters and doctoral degrees, professional diplomas and certifications. Kean distinguishes itself through excellence in academics, strategic investments in both research and cultural facilities and initiatives and a commitment to the success of every student. Dedicated to preparing students for rewarding careers, lifelong learning and fulfilling lives, Kean offers a broad range of disciplines, the expertise of a diverse and world-savvy faculty and a student-centered learning environment and campus community. The University sits on three adjoining campus sites in Union County, New Jersey covering 180 acres, two miles from Newark Liberty International Airport and thirty minutes from New York City, with additional locations in Ocean County, New Jersey – Kean Ocean and Jefferson, New Jersey – Kean Skylands. Kean University also operates a unique, additional location in Wenzhou, China, where development of a full-scale campus is currently underway.

The College of Education is composed of three schools – Global Education and Early Learning; Health and Human Performance; and Special Education and Literacy. The Kean University Child Care Center and the Office of Teacher Certification and Alternate Route Programs also report to the College Dean.

Under the direction of the Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs, the Dean acts as the senior academic and administrative officer of the College of Education and assumes overall responsibility for the development, modification and administration of programs and personnel necessary to meet the academic needs of the students served by the college and for the fostering of excellence in programs, instruction and research within the related disciplines. The Dean is the chief academic, administrative and scheduling officer of the College and is responsible for implementing all University policies pertaining to the College.
